Romance in the heart of London

41
PORTLAND
PLACE

Welcome

If you have ever dreamed of holding your wedding in a London Georgian townhouse, 41 Portland Place is perfect for you.

Surrounded by elegant grandeur and in the heart of Marylebone, our Grade II* listed Georgian Townhouse is the ideal setting for a stylish and romantic London wedding, with beautiful versatile spaces, including a stunning outdoor terrace, we can accommodate intimate events or larger parties of up to 120 guests for a standing reception.

You can relax and savour each moment of your special day while our in-house team takes care of everything.

History

Designed by James Adam in 1773, 41 Portland Place was originally built as a private home for The Honourable Thomas Gage.

During the Second World War, the house remained standing while surrounding buildings were raised to the ground during the London Blitz. The Ciba/Novartis Foundation moved into 41 Portland Place in 1947, and for over 50 years hosted prestigious scientific events attended by some of the greatest medical scientists of the last century.

Today the house is home to the Academy of Medical Sciences. Profits generated through venue hire of 41 Portland Place are used to fund activities run by the Academy of Medical Sciences to ensure research is rapidly translated into benefits for patients.

“
